NEXT STEPS

1. Send a hearing request to the Mental Health Tribunal by submitting the application through CMI/ODS. Update the compulsory notifications tab on CMI/ODS.
2. If the application is urgent call the Mental Health Tribunal to notify them of the application and send copies of this form to the Mental Health Tribunal at:
 - Ph: 9032 3200
 - Fax: 9032 3223
3. Explain to the person that you have made this application and that the Mental Health Tribunal will invite them to a Tribunal hearing. Offer the patient support to prepare for their Tribunal hearing.
4. Prepare the Mental Health Tribunal report on electroconvulsive treatment and any other supporting information to be presented at the hearing. You can get copies of the template at www.mht.vic.gov.au.
5. Give a copy of the report on electroconvulsive treatment and access to the supporting information to the person and the Tribunal at least 2 business days before the hearing. You should also share this report with the person's family, carers or supporters if the person consents or if otherwise allowed under the Mental Health and Wellbeing Act 2022.
6. Ensure appropriate supports are provided to assist the person to understand this information.
7. Offer the person help to submit the What I want to tell the Tribunal form if they would like to do so

Notes

1. An instructional directive is a formal document made in accordance with the requirements of the Medical Treatment Planning and Decisions Act 2016 that expressly consents to or refuses specific medical treatment. An advance statement of preferences is not an instructional directive.
2. If the person has an instructional directive consenting to ECT, ensure a copy of the instructional directive is in the person's clinical record and is available to the Mental Health Tribunal at the hearing.

Decision-making principles for treatment and interventions

You must give proper consideration to the decision-making principles for treatment and interventions in making this decision.

Title	Principle
Care and transition to less restrictive support	Compulsory assessment and treatment is to be provided with the aim of promoting the person's recovery and transitioning them to less restrictive treatment, care and support. To this end, a person who is subject to compulsory assessment or treatment is to receive comprehensive, compassionate, safe and high-quality mental health and wellbeing services.
Consequences of compulsory assessment and treatment and restrictive interventions principle	The use of compulsory assessment and treatment or restrictive interventions significantly limits a person's human rights and may cause possible harm including— (a) serious distress experienced by the person; and (b) the disruption of the relationships, living arrangements, education or employment of the person.
No therapeutic benefit to restrictive interventions principle	The use of restrictive interventions on a person offers no inherent therapeutic benefit to the person.
Balancing of harm principle	Compulsory assessment and treatment or restrictive interventions are not to be used unless the serious harm or deterioration to be prevented is likely to be more significant than the harm to the person that may result from their use.
Autonomy principle	The will and preferences of a person are to be given effect to the greatest extent possible in all decisions about assessment, treatment, recovery and support, including when those decisions relate to compulsory assessment and treatment.
